

To Whom It May Concern:

Re: Randall Munson

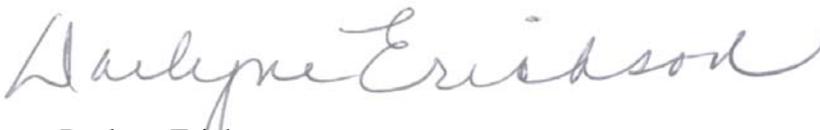

I have witnessed Randall Munson's creativity over the last several years as a Master of Ceremonies, educator, entertainer and more recently, as a speaker for the opening of our annual meeting. I needed someone who would wake up a group of association executives at 8:00am, and that's no easy task.

As a meeting planner I'm sensitive to the fact my membership is a highly discerning bunch when it comes to speakers. They assume they've heard it all...the good, bad and the ugly. It takes a lot to impress them, as they are a very critical bunch, but I was confident the Randall would win them over.

And he did! Within a matter of minutes he had them smiling, laughing, poking one another with that knowing "he's good" look on their faces. You learn to read body language and theirs was positive.

I would recommend Randall Munson as a speaker to any group, large or small. His use of audio, visuals and timing were great. He makes you think about things from a different perspective...laughing all the way.

Sincerely,
